

A Level Photography

Please find below a list of essential equipment required for A Level study in Photography. Details are also listed below of a mini project. Please aim to complete the 'Year 12 Summer Project' for the start of your A Level study in September. This work is to support creative enquiry and to maintain skills which will set you in good stead for A Level study. Work should be handed in during the first Photography lesson in Year 12. Students should spend an appropriate amount of time on each objective for a quality A Level finish. Rushed work will not suffice.

TASK 1: Purchase of essential equipment:

A3 Spiral Bound sketchbook, with black pages where possible.
Blutack
Scissors
Glue

TASK 2: You are to develop a mini project over the summer of a personal theme. Consider basing your project on something meaningful to you such as family & friends, animals, landscapes, architecture, objects etc. Your mini project must consist of:

1. You are to collect photographic research (x200 minimum) of a personal theme. Consider basing your project on something you find of interest such as Portraiture, Exercise, Still life, Close up, Shadows, Machinery, Objects etc.
2. Four in depth written analyses on two researched and inspiring photographers.
3. x20 developed/edited photographs showing connections to your selected photographers. You may wish use mobile apps to edit your photographs or online editing websites such as pixlr.com or photopea.com
4. Edits annotations, comparing your images to the work of your Photographers.
5. Exhibit your work in a small sketchbook, this could be handmade or purchased. Your sketchbook should reflect your project, consider composition and design.

All work completed in class next year and at home will form part of the coursework component. We look forward to receiving the completed project.

How to make a sketchbook.

Making yourself a sketchbook is pretty easy and the best thing is that you can choose what paper you would like to use and what size you would like it to be. You could use plain white paper or a mixture of plain, coloured and lined. You could also recycle old books, magazines or wrapping paper to make a cover. Here are the instructions of three different ways to make a sketchbook.

Simple Folded Sketchbook

To make this simple sketchbook you need 6 pieces of A4 paper and a large elastic band or string. First, fold your pieces of paper in half. Once you have folded them in half, tuck them inside of each other to make a booklet.

OR

Finally open the booklet to the middle page and lay flat on the table. To hold all your pages together carefully wrap the elastic band over all the pages into the centre fold OR use some string or ribbon to wrap around centre fold and tie in a knot.

Simple Stitched Sketchbook

To make this simple stitched sketchbook you need 6 pieces of A4 paper, an extra piece of paper for the cover, a ruler, a pencil and some cotton thread and a needle.

You need to finish with the needle in the centre of the booklet. Lastly, cut the needle off the thread and tie it with the 10cm knotted end that you left.

First, fold your pieces of paper in half. Once you have folded them in half, open each of the pages out and mark a small dot in the centre fold at 5cm and 15cm. Then use the needle to push a hole through each the dots you have made.

Next tuck all your pages inside of each other to make a booklet. Cut a long piece of thread and put it through the needle. Double it up and tie a knot in the end.

From the inside of the booklet put the needle through one of the holes and through all the pages until you come out of the cover. Leave around 10cm of thread with the knot on the end in the centre of the booklet. Then put the needle through the next hole on the outside cover and thread through the pages until it comes out through the centre page again. Repeat this two more times.

Mini Concertina Sketchbook

To make this simple stitched sketchbook you need 6 pieces of A4 paper, a pair of scissors, a ruler, a pencil and glue stick.

First, fold your pieces of paper in half along the longest side then cut along the fold lines so that you end up with 6 long pieces of paper.

Measure a 2cm strip along the width of each of the pieces of paper. Fold the paper in half to this line and then fold the paper over on the line so that you end up with a tab on each of the folded pieces.

Lastly, line up each of the pages so that the tabs line up with the next then glue them together.

Create a cover or title page for your sketchbook.

Once you have made your sketchbook, you need to decorate the cover – this can be using whatever materials you like. If you have used some wrapping paper to cover your book then you should decorate the first page instead.

I decided to use a stencil and put text on my cover, using different pens and pencils. I also have limited colours.

You could use paint, pencil, pen, stencils, printing, stamps, collage, stickers, doodles, photos...anything you like! Make it personal to you, your interests and a style of art you like.
